The urgency of the gospel

I must admit, I am writing this article with deep sadness in my heart. A gentleman I know and have dealt with in various capacities passed away suddenly this week. He was quite unassuming and really did not have much of a family. He was a man of few words, a very private individual who lived alone all his life. Yet, he was a good man who poured his heart into the things he loved the most.

A while back, I was on a road trip and he decided to jump in and ride with me. As we drove, I had the opportunity to share the gospel with him. He was somewhat receptive and asked good questions, but he did not embrace Christ that day. I believe he felt like he had plenty of time in the future to make a decision for Christ. Honestly, I do not know if he ever put his faith in Jesus, but the reality that he is now gone burdens my heart deeply.

Upon receiving the news of his death, I immediately began to recall our conversation and my heart began to feel deep sorrow. Yes, I am sad he is no longer here. However, the deeper sorrow lies in my uncertainty of his eternity. I know he heard the gospel. I know he heard how to be saved and spend eternity with Jesus. I am just not sure he ever embraced Jesus.

This sorrow drives me to feel the urgency of the gospel once again. We constantly interact with people who are on their way to a Christless eternity in hell. We must feel the deep obligation and duty to share the gospel of Christ. These days, many leaders want to categorize

how you can engage others with

ministry into boxes to justify the spiritual duties in which we may not be the strongest. We say things like, “Evangelism is not my spiritual gift” or “I am more into discipleship than evangelism.” The truth is, evangelism and discipleship are not mutually exclusive. They go hand in hand. If we are truly making disciples, we are training them to share the gospel. This must be driven by a burden to see the lost come to Christ.

Since hearing about the death of my friend, I have once again committed to be intentional with evangelism. I want to seek out those who are lost and without hope and tell them about the saving power of Jesus. I want my life to always be used as a mouthpiece for the gospel. My friend wasn’t concerned about the latest denominational controversy. He wasn’t in tune with the latest church trends. He didn’t spend time looking through people’s theological debates on Twitter. Nope, none of these. He was just living and trying to fill the void in his life.

I want to encourage you today to take time and pray for someone you know who is lost. Take time today and think through how you can engage others with the gospel. I encourage you to pray for a renewed sense of urgency to share the gospel every chance you get. I am grateful for my friend’s life. Oh, how I hope he placed his faith in Jesus at some point. Although I will not know where he spends his eternity until I stand before the Lord, I know his death has stirred passion in me to be a witness for Jesus every day of my life.

I love you and am honored to serve you! Let’s share Jesus!

Delayed until eternity

I've recently taken several personality profiles for a work-related endeavor. Typically, these profiles include an assessment where the participant is required to answer a series of questions, often choosing between or ranking a list of options, until an algorithm can create a profile of your strengths, weaknesses, giftings, and preferences. These findings are then expressed in single words or phrases such as "motivator" or "hospitable" or "works better alone."

No shade here—I'm finding these latest assessments (I've taken many of them) to be insightful. Even so, I recently stumbled upon another series of words and phrases you likely won't find on the most popular personality profiles available in the marketplace today. They're found in Jesus' Sermon on the Mount, as historically recorded in Matthew 5-7.

In Chapter 5, Jesus offers the profile—we might even say DNA—of someone who is a faithful and devoted follower. That devotee is poor in spirit (v.3), one who mourns (v.4), and one who is humble (v.5). The faithful disciple is one who will withhold punishment and extend grace even when it is not deserved (v.7) and make peace, even though the human heart often looks for a good ol' knock-down, drag-out fight (v.9).

I can just see the results from that personality assessment: "Jayson is destined to embrace a life of mourning and humility ...." Held up to societal standards, such an assessment would be disappointing, to say the least. But juxtaposed with the biblical standard, you'd be hard-pressed to find a follower of Jesus who wouldn't want that as their epitaph.

The question is, how do we bring our hearts to a place where we see words such as "humble" and "mourning" not as flimsy or discouraging, but empowering? Jesus tells us a few verses later: "Be glad and rejoice, because your reward is great in heaven."

His words ought to be a convicting reminder that this world is not our home. We all want great things for our lives, for our kids, and (hopefully) for everyone we know. But herein lies a landscape where Satan likes to set a trap for us, somehow convincing our hearts that we must go all-in—no matter what it takes—to achieve our best lives now. I personally believe Jesus would tell us instead that our best life is coming, when we exist in a perfect place with a perfect God as has always been intended.

Delayed gratification is the idea that we give up what may be rewarding now for a greater reward later. Christians—no, I—need to learn how to delay gratification, giving up the battles regarding all the things for which I might contend—money, power, significance, status—in exchange for the unfathomable glory that is to come for we who have put our trust in Jesus.

Where is the strain in your soul? What situations in life are causing you the most discomfort? What is stealing your Jesus-promised peace today? With deeper examination, you may find that the source of that which is troubling you is rooted in a desire to take hold of a reward now that may not be experienced until heaven.

Praying your way to an Easter that will impact eternity

Last month in this column, I offered five practical ways to pray more effectively this year. This week, I once again write about prayer, but with specific emphasis on praying about Resurrection Sunday (April 9). Here are five ways to pray for your church's services on that special day:

Pray for the health of your pastoral staff.

Easter weekend is a busy one, and stress can sometimes make us more vulnerable to illness. We want everything to go well, knowing that some guests will be in church for the first time in a long time. If we're being honest, sometimes we work harder on the Resurrection Sunday sermon than we typically do for others. We long for lost people to get saved and for wayward believers to return to God.

Pray that the truth of the death and resurrection of Jesus will refresh your heart in new ways.

Too many of us take the resurrection story for granted, and we celebrate by simply having a big day in church. We work hard at getting people to church during this time of year, but we sometimes miss the gospel for ourselves in the process. Pray that Resurrection Sunday will have new meaning for you this year.

Pray for church members to invite their non-believing friends to the services—and for non-believers to be burdened about their need for Jesus.

We need to reach out to non-believers we might have a close relationship with and invite them to come hear about Jesus. Pray for other believers to do this as well. At the same time, pray that unchurched folks will make the right decision to attend where they will hear the gospel.

Pray against the enemy snatching the Word as it's proclaimed.

Jesus warned us this would happen in the parable of the sower (Mark 4:1-20). Satan has many ways of distracting people from hearing the Word, but he appears to work overtime during gospel proclamation. On Resurrection Sunday, pray during the service that God will guard the hearers of the Word from the enemy's arrows. Begin the prayer for yourself as you listen to the sermon, and then extend the prayer to others seated around you.

Pray for the more than 4 billion people around the world who have never heard the resurrection story—and for the missionaries giving their lives to get that story to them.

Resurrection Sunday will mean nothing for much of the world. Billions of people will come and go that day as if there never were an empty tomb that once held Jesus, the Son of God. If that reality does not break your heart, meditate more on the miracle and grace of the resurrection this year. Thank God for eternal life.

SUBTLE, SMALL, AND POWERFUL

God is working in the 'everyday moments,' Trenton pastor says

TRENTON

Sometimes God moves in local churches through large numbers of baptisms or highly attended events, but He often works in steady, common ways that don't immediately draw attention, said pastor Jason Points.

"I'm incredibly excited about what the Lord is doing here, and at this point what the Spirit is doing is predominantly unseen, but the Spirit is at work in very substantive ways," said Points, who pastors First Baptist Church in Trenton, northeast of Dallas.

Points has been guiding the congregation to look for the Spirit at work in the small moments, he said, such as changing hearts and moving people closer to His will one step at a time. The church, which began in 1877, has had years of faithfulness—though seldom has something happened that would garner attention.

"The Spirit is doing incredible things in these little everyday moments, and part of what we're trying to do now is help people see what the Spirit is doing so that they're energized and refreshed by the work of God in their midst," said Points, a two-time Criswell College graduate.

Trenton has been a farming community, and for many of its early years, preachers would come through and stay only a year or two, Points said. One of those who stayed a short time was James Truett, brother of former FBC Dallas pastor and SBC president George Truett, who lived in nearby Whitewright.

Only two pastors have served 10 years or more in the church's history, and just a handful have served more than six years, Points said. In fact, he is the 40th pastor of First Baptist Trenton, having arrived in late 2021 after serving on staff at First Baptist Church in Farmersville.

“In terms of faithfully serving in a small church, [local church ministry is] so important because God has given His people various gifts, and the use of those gifts is vital.”

Despite a high turnover rate, First Baptist Trenton has loved its pastors well, something Points recalls noticing when he preached there one Sunday evening in 2013.

“They are a congregation that is sweet,” he said. “I think they’re a congregation that bears with one another. While there can be conflict, it’s not like we’re having church splits every time there’s a conflict. Over the last 12 years, they’ve been a church where expository preaching is welcomed.”

About 20 years ago, when the Trenton economy was better, the church had about 200 in attendance, Points said. Now they have 82 active members, and the average attendance is 60 on Sundays.

Points is a full-time pastor, and he said his wife’s full-time job with the city of Frisco makes that possible. Although the church’s finances are tight, First Baptist Trenton needs a full-time pastor to lead them where they want to go.

Last fall, the church started its first growth group—basically a community group that meets on Tuesday nights in someone’s home. About 15 people have been attending.

“We have a meal together. We go deeper into sermon application,” Points said. “We use the sermon to jump into what’s going on in our lives and how God’s Word applies in these given circumstances. The point is to grow deeper relationally and spiritually.”

The future is hopeful, Points said, because the church is located on a corridor between two roads leading to industrial areas. “When people want to move out of the city, this is one of the directions they’re moving.”

Even when flashy things aren’t happening and success seems elusive, Points values ministry in a local church because it’s “where God has covenanted His people together.”

▲ Jason Points and his wife, Paige, are committed to a longterm ministry at First Baptist Church in Trenton, the pastor said, because local church ministry is valuable.

“In terms of faithfully serving in a small church, it’s so important because God has given His people various gifts, and the use of those gifts is vital,” the pastor said. “As a result of people using their gifts in the local church, the church can be refreshed and revitalized.”

Part of getting people to see God at work in the everyday moments is tuning them in to the ways He can use the gifts He has given them, Points said.

Though First Baptist Trenton is seeking to reach people now, they’re simultaneously spending time on in-house matters as well, Points said, “so that we can be in a healthier place to invite people into something where they can be known and belong and be fed and equipped to serve.”

FROM REFOCUSED TO REVITALIZED

Century-old church experiences new life by reaching out to changing community

GALENA PARK

Christians live in an ever-changing world with a never-changing gospel. Considering that reality, many find themselves adapting their evangelistic strategies to reach new generations and cultures around them.

First Baptist Church of Galena Park, located in a city that has seen its population demographic shift dramatically over the years, has embraced these changes.

The 105-year-old church began as an Anglo congregation in 1918. About 90 years later, the church began to experience a significant decline in membership, dropping from more than 800 members at its high point to less than 100. As the church experienced change, so did the population around it. By 2002, Galena Park's population had become 85% Hispanic.

FBC Galena Park decided to embrace that change and begin reaching out to other cultures. What followed can only be described as a revitalization of the church. Part of the church's plan to adapt to its new reality included calling a bilingual Hispanic pastor to lead services in English and Spanish to reach the growing number of Hispanics in the community.

That bilingual pastor was Marcos Ramos, who, along with his wife Irma and their three children, answered the call to lead the church into the future. According to Ramos, the church gained strength and became financially sound as it began reaching out to Hispanics.

FBC Galena Park hosts three Sunday worship services: in Spanish at 9:30 a.m., in English at 11 a.m., and a bilingual service at 6 p.m.

“We didn’t want to be just the Hispanic department or mission of Galena Park. We wanted to be one church [in multiple languages].”

—MARCOS RAMOS

“We didn’t want to be just the Hispanic department or mission of Galena Park,” said Ramos, who has pastored the church for 21 years. “We wanted to be one church [in multiple languages].”

Ramos felt a call to ministry at age 16, when he saw a need for more Hispanic pastors. Later, he decided to prepare for his calling by earning a diploma in theology from the Baptist University of the Americas and a bachelor’s degree in theological studies from Dallas Baptist University. He also took graduate courses at Criswell College and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Throughout his 46-year pastoral career, God has been faithful to give Ramos the opportunity to pastor Anglo and Hispanic churches. At 67, he is still preaching the gospel of Christ, leading his flock in Galena Park, and enjoying his 10 grandchildren. Ramos served two consecutive terms on the Southern Baptists of Texas Convention (SBTC) Executive Board from 2003-2012 and was chairman of the Credentials Committee in 2007.

FBC Galena Park is a three-time recipient of the SBTC’s “Look Like Heaven” award, given to multicultural churches that are among the state’s top givers to the Cooperative Program.

“Last year, we gave $11,998 to the Cooperative Program for the glory of God,” Ramos said, “and we also financially support other mission work, such as our local Baptist association, the San Jacinto Baptist Association.” During the 2022 SBTC Annual Meeting, Ramos and his wife received the Michael Gonzalez Ministerial Legacy Award for their many years of ministry.

That faithful ministry has included leading the church to host events and programs throughout the year to evangelize and reach out to the community. During Thanksgiving, FBC Galena Park hosts a meal where the Word of God is shared. The church also has a food pantry for those in the community who need help, members pack gift boxes for Operation Christmas Child, and it hosts block parties to provide haircuts, food, school supplies, and activities for the children. FBC Galena Park also hosts AWANA, a discipleship and recreation program for children. Additionally, the church has participated in several mission trips to various Hispanic countries.

FBC Galena Park has a mission to be “a dynamic spiritual organism empowered by the Holy Spirit to share Jesus Christ and reach as many people as possible in our community and around the world.” The church believes what the Bible says is true—that one day, those from every nation, tribe, people, and tongue will worship before the throne of God.

Until that time, they will continue to fulfill the mission by reaching every nation, tribe, and tongue God has placed right in their own backyard.

CAMBIO DE ENFOQUE LOS LLEVA A LA REVITALIZACIÓN

Iglesia centenaria experimenta un resurgir al alcanzar a una

GALENA PARK

Los cristianos vivimos en un mundo cambiante, pero con un evangelio inmovible. Teniendo en cuenta esa realidad, muchas iglesias se encuentran adaptando sus estrategias evangelísticas para llegar a las nuevas generaciones y culturas que las rodean.

La Primera Iglesia Bautista (PIB) de Galena Park, situada en una ciudad en la que, a lo largo de los años, ha visto cambiar drásticamente la población, ha aceptado estos cambios.

Esta iglesia, de 105 años de antigüedad, comenzó como una congregación anglosajona en el 1918. Unos 90 años más tarde, el número de miembros de la iglesia empezó a disminuir considerablemente, pasando de ser más de 800 en su momento álgido a menos de 100. A medida que la iglesia experimentaba cambios, también lo hacía su población. En el 2002, la población de Galena Park se había convertido en un 85% hispana.

La iglesia decidió abrazar ese cambio y tratar de llegar a otras culturas. Lo que sucedió luego sólo puede describirse como una revitalización de la iglesia. Parte del plan de la iglesia para adaptarse a su nueva realidad incluía traer a un pastor hispano bilingüe para así poder proveer servicios en inglés y español con el fin de alcanzar a los hispanos de la comunidad.

Ese pastor bilingüe era Marcos Ramos, quien, junto con su esposa Irma y sus tres hijos, respondió al llamado de dirigir la iglesia hacia un nuevo futuro. Según Ramos, la iglesia se fortaleció y adquirió solidez financiera cuando comenzaron a alcanzar activamente a los hispanos. Hoy en día, Ramos ha sido el pastor de esta congregación bilingüe durante casi 21 años.

La PIB de Galena Park celebra tres cultos dominicales: en español a las 9:30 a.m., en inglés a las 11 a.m. y un servicio bilingüe a las 6 p.m.

“No queríamos ser sólo un departamento o misión hispana de Galena Park,” dijo Ramos. “Queríamos ser una iglesia [en varios idiomas].”

Ramos sintió el llamado al ministerio a los 16 años, cuando vio la necesidad de más pastores hispanos. Más tarde, decidió prepararse para su llamado obteniendo un diploma en teología de la Universidad Bautista de las Américas (antes Instituto Bíblico Bautista Mexicano) y un bachillerato en estudios teológicos de la Universidad Bautista de Dallas. También realizó cursos de posgrado en el Criswell College y en el Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary.

A lo largo de su extenso ministerio pastoral de 46 años, Dios ha sido fiel al darle a Ramos la oportunidad de pastorear tanto iglesias anglosajonas como hispanas. A sus 67 años, sigue predicando el evangelio de Cristo, guiando a su rebaño en Galena Park y disfrutando de sus 10 nietos. Ramos sirvió dos términos consecutivos en la Junta Directiva de la Convención de los Bautistas del Sur de Texas (SBTC), del 2003 al 2012, y fue presidente del Comité de Credenciales en el 2007.

La Primera Iglesia Bautista de Galena Park ha recibido tres veces el premio “Look Like Heaven” de la SBTC, otorgado a iglesias multiculturales que se encuentran entre las que más aportan financieramente al Programa Cooperativo en todo el estado. La iglesia ha estado afiliada a la SBTC desde sus comienzos.

“El año pasado, dimos $11,998 al Programa Cooperativo para la gloria de Dios,” dijo Ramos, “y también apoyamos financieramente otras obras misioneras, como nuestra asociación bautista local, la Asociación Bautista de San Jacinto.” Durante la Reunión Anual 2022 de la SBTC, Ramos y su esposa, Irma, recibieron el Reconocimiento de Legado Ministerial Michael González, debido su trayectoria ministerial de 46 años.

Durante todo el año, la iglesia organiza eventos y programas para evangelizar y alcanzar a la comunidad. El Día de Acción de Gracias organizan una comida en dónde se comparte la Palabra de Dios. La iglesia también tiene una despensa de alimentos para aquellos en la comunidad que solicitan ayuda, empacan cajas de regalo para el proyecto Operación Niño de la Navidad, y organiza fiestas en la cuadra para proporcionar cortes de pelo, alimentos, útiles escolares y actividades para los niños. La PIB de Galena Park también es sede de AWANA, un programa de discipulado y recreación para niños. Además, la iglesia ha participado en varios viajes misioneros a varios países hispanos.

La PIB de Galena Park tiene la misión de ser “un organismo espiritual dinámico, empoderado por el Espíritu Santo para compartir a Jesucristo y alcanzar a la mayor cantidad de personas posible en nuestra comunidad y en alrededor el mundo.” La iglesia cree que lo que dice la Biblia es verdad: que un día, personas de todas las naciones, tribus, pueblos y lenguas adorarán ante el trono de Dios.

Hasta entonces, seguirán cumpliendo su misión alcanzando a todas las naciones, tribus, pueblos y lenguas que Dios ha puesto al cruzar la calle.

EQUIPPING THE SAINTS

Bivocational pastor finding balance between wholehearted service, empowering congregation

ROYSE CITY

Talk of a men's Bible study had been happening for months at Trinity Baptist Church, but nothing ever seemed to materialize.

Joshua Wilken, the church's bivocational pastor, had his hands full and knew it wouldn't be wise to take on another responsibility. He was already teaching the adult Sunday school class, preaching the Sunday morning worship service, co-leading a couple's Bible study with his wife, Emily, one Sunday per month, and taking his deacons through a curriculum to help them grow in their service to the church.

All of that in addition to balancing his full-time job as a business development manager who travels on a regular basis with being a husband and father of two children involved in sports.

Whew. Needless to say ...

"Being bivocational, you've got to be pretty strategic and intentional about what you do because your time is extremely limited," Wilken said. "You've got to guard your time because, if you don't, you'll lose all the time you have for your family."

While any type of ministry service can be taxing, pastoring bivocationally can have its own unique stressors. Yet it also comes with benefits that can bless a pastor's heart—such as the moment when one of Trinity's deacons and another man in the church told Wilken they wanted to personally launch that men's Bible study.

"That's been one of the biggest blessings we've seen at Trinity—others stepping up and growing and taking charge in areas of ministry that maybe a [full-time] pastor would normally do," Wilken said. "It's just cool."

'I didn't think I was ever going to pastor again'

It was a winding road that led Wilken and his family to Trinity. The Illinois native who said he couldn't speak for longer than a minute in high school speech class began to sense a call to ministry during his teenage years. He preached his first sermon at age 16 but admitted he spent several years "running from the Lord" as he pursued his childhood dream of becoming a law enforcement officer.

Wilken moved to Texas in 2005 and began pursuing that dream in 2006, shortly after marrying Emily—whom he had met when her church came to Illinois for a mission trip several years earlier. By 2007, he realized serving as a peace officer wasn't going to satisfy the call God had put on his heart. Less than a month after leaving law enforcement, he enrolled at Criswell College and began pastoring in East Texas.

Many joys and full-time service to several churches followed, but a difficult ministry season ultimately led Wilken to move his family to

"Being bivocational, you've got to be pretty strategic and intentional about what you do because your time is extremely limited."

—JOSHUA WILKEN

Royse City and then step away from the pastorate altogether. “At that point in my life,” Wilken said, “I didn’t think I was ever going to pastor again.”

With vocational ministry in his rearview, Wilken began working in operations for a faith-based company. About five years in, he shifted to the company’s business development department, focusing on existing client relationships.

Just across the tree line from the Wilkens’ home sat Trinity Baptist Church. “It’s basically out my back door,” Wilken said. “I had seen it for several years and thought, ‘Man, that church has so much potential,’ not ever dreaming or knowing that God would put us there.”

As the story goes, Wilken was asked to fill the pulpit one Sunday during the summer of 2018, when Trinity’s pastor couldn’t be there. Wilken was asked to fill the pulpit once more that fall. By the end of the year, the church’s pastor left and Wilken agreed to help deliver the weekly sermon until Trinity could call its next pastor.

That next pastor’s name, he was sure, was not going to be Joshua Wilken.

“I was in a position to be able to help churches [without serving on staff], and that’s what I wanted to do,” he said.

Wilken served as the church’s interim pastor from January to June of 2019—and despite his initial insistence that he had no intent on serving the church in an official capacity—something began to change within him.

He began to fall in love.

“It was the people,” he said. “They had a hunger for the Lord, a hunger for the Word of God, and they genuinely wanted to reach people for Christ. In a small church like that ... you don't always see that. Everybody was united and everybody was in agreement, and just the love that they had—that's why we're here."

During the interim period, Wilken informed church leadership that he and his family were beginning to have a change of heart. Even so, he said he asked that the church continue with its pastor search process. Only this time, he was willing to add his resume to the stack. In June 2019, Trinity dropped the interim title and called Wilken to be its next pastor.

A culture of growth

Trinity is well-positioned for growth. As professionals look for ways to escape the fast-lane lifestyle of the Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex, an increasing number are calling points east along Interstate 30 home. Royse City—neighbor to another swelling I-30 community, Rockwall—has doubled in population twice in recent years and is expected to grow more than 30% before 2024, according to its community development corporation. It has more than 15,000 homes in development.

The church, likewise, is experiencing promising growth. Wilken said there were a couple dozen people attending Trinity when he answered the call to pastor there. Now, the church's lone adult Sunday school class itself attracts about 30 people weekly.

"Everybody was united and everybody was in agreement, and just the love that they had—that's why we're here."

—JOSHUA WILKEN

It's settings like that where Wilken said he thrives, spending time with and ministering to people. Even so, he said one of the biggest challenges of serving bivocationally is the limited amount of time he has to do those types of things. Because of that, he said he leans on his deacons (chairman Mario Retta, Dave Frierson, and Russ Mills) to help carry out the work of ministry, as well as relying on his ministry assistant, Lisa Retta.

"God is raising up people from within the church," Wilken said. "I think that's partly because I'm bivocational, and partly because we're specifically and strategically praying for that."

Alex Gonzales, an associate with the Southern Baptists of Texas Convention who focuses on bivocational ministry, said bivocational pastors make up the majority of pastors serving in Texas. When a congregation takes ownership in the ministry of the church, he said, it has far-reaching effects.

"The demand on these pastors and their families is difficult to put into words," Gonzales said. "When members step up to fulfill ministry tasks ... not only is this biblical, but also beneficial for everyone involved."

bivo pastors network

Bivocational pastors make up the majority of pastors across Texas and the demand on them and their families is difficult. The SBTC works to network with bivocational pastors across the state.

Dallas pastor finds ministry opportunities inside, outside the church

DESOTO

Austin native Ed Johnson III, pastor of Harvest Fellowship Baptist Church in DeSoto, finds ice storms such as the one in early February that shut down Dallas to be problematic in more ways than one. Not only does he shepherd a congregation of 75 adults, children, and youth, but he also serves as director of programs for a Dallas-based homeless ministry.

Johnson planted Harvest Fellowship while pursuing a doctor of ministry degree at Dallas Theological Seminary. After serving 10 years as a Christian education pastor at a South Dallas church, he and his wife, Tiffany, were encouraged to start the DeSoto congregation.

“Providential circumstances and consultation with fellow believers in my D.Min cohort confirmed the decision to plant Harvest Fellowship,” Johnson said. After a pre-launch in 2016, in which Johnson approached the Southern Baptists of Texas Convention for a church planter assessment, training, and assistance, Harvest launched on Easter 2017.

“We had what I’d call a ‘hot start,’” Johnson said with a chuckle. “We had a whopping seven people, three of whom were myself, my wife, and our daughter.” The church grew steadily, however, and COVID caused only a temporary decline in attendance.

“We were very compassionate but intentional regarding how we responded to COVID as a church,” Johnson said. “We started gathering in person as soon as the mandates were lifted [in] July 2020.” Although the church posted sermons for those who could not attend, virtual church was not recommended as a substitute for in-person fellowship.

“We ask our homeless guests two questions: ‘Will you trust the Lord?’ and ‘Will you let us help you off the streets?’”

—ED JOHNSON III, SPEAKING OF HIS WORK WITH OUR CALLING

“Those [who were] able were encouraged to come. If you resumed your life, if you were at AT&T Stadium to watch the Cowboys, or if you were flying on airplanes, you could come to church,” Johnson said. “Thankfully, God honored that.” Attendance soon resembled what it had been pre-pandemic.

In August 2021, two months after completing his doctorate, Johnson came on staff with Our Calling, a Christian nonprofit where he works while pastoring Harvest. As program director, he supervises 20 staffers comprising five teams, including on-site men’s and women’s care ministers, search and rescue personnel who assist the homeless, placement experts focusing on exit strategies from homelessness, and staff members who work with the organization’s anti-trafficking initiative.

➤ Outside the church, Johnson works for a ministry named Our Calling, a nonprofit ministry to the homeless where he serves as program director.

Johnson directs the “people-engagement” arm of the ministry. “We ask our homeless guests two questions: ‘Will you trust the Lord?’ and ‘Will you let us help you off the streets,’” he said.

The ministry also has a national mobile app designed by CEO Wayne Walker, a former software developer who co-founded Our Calling with his wife, Carolyn. The app directs users to homeless services in their area and receives upward of 100,000 hits per day. Our Calling is also constructing a 500-unit tiny home community for the homeless near Ferris, located about 20 miles southeast of Dallas.

Our Calling keeps Johnson busy, as does the church. Finding balance can be challenging.

Time limits

Time is at a premium. “You don’t have as much time to visit church members at their homes or jobs or when they are in the hospital. You can’t go to lunch with them,” Johnson said of his bivocational status.

Sermon preparation and meetings take time too. Johnson said he plans sermon topics six months in advance to stay organized.

Ed and Tiffany Johnson pose with their daughters, Desirae and Gabrielle.

“I need to be a good husband and father before I can be a faithful pastor.”

—ED JOHNSON III

“You have to crunch a lot into a little bit of time,” he said. “You have to be faithful to the church and faithful to the job you have too. You don’t want to cheat your job. You want to give job and church your best energies.”

Juggling family life with job and church can also be challenging. Johnson said he formerly worked all day each Saturday preparing Sunday’s sermon. To make time for his two daughters, Desirae, 11, and Gabrielle, 4, and alleviate the strain on his wife, who also works outside the home, the pastor changed his schedule. He now studies through the week and writes his sermon manuscript starting at 9 p.m. Saturday, working late into the night or early into the next morning.

Making that adjustment was worth it. “I need to be a good husband and father before I can be a faithful pastor,” he said.

Benefits

Besides encouraging structure and organization, having a bivocational pastor forces congregations to focus on what is most important, Johnson noted.

“We look at what is absolutely essential to making disciples and allowing the church to be on mission for Jesus,” he explained. Sometimes this focus means they “dial down and refine what ministries are essential for the church to function.”

For example, rather than hosting outreach events at the church, members volunteer at city-sponsored events. If the city of DeSoto is putting on a fall festival, Harvest Fellowship will have a booth with church information. Members, wearing their church T-shirts, assist by handing out candy, monitoring a bounce house, or doing whatever is needed.

“Whatever events our city is hosting, we try to jump on that opportunity and serve them and make their event successful,” the pastor said. “Doing so gives us the chance to rub shoulders with non-Christians.”

For Johnson and Harvest Fellowship, a multi-ethnic, multi-generational congregation, the strategy is working.

Johnson serves as the program director for Our Calling, a nonprofit ministry that leads the homeless to live a healthy and sustainable lifestyle by building lasting relationships and making disciples on the streets.

“We give toward the Cooperative Program because the task of advancing the gospel is greater than any one church. We desire to unite with like-minded churches to shoulder it together. What a great privilege it is to be a part of something that reaches more people and impacts eternity for Christ.”

“God has called each of us personally and as the church to take the gospel to the world. We will not complete the mission we’ve been given alone, which is why giving through the Cooperative Program is the most efficient and effective way for the church to finish the task of reaching the world for Jesus.”

Michael Criner

“[We] have made a longterm commitment to give 10% of our budget offerings to the CP through the Southern Baptists of Texas Convention. There is simply no more effective avenue to impact the communities of our state, nation, and world than giving to missions in this way. We have learned that God makes it possible for us to be generous in missions and in our local mission ministries. He has provided for us to do this year after year. I encourage your longterm commitment to the CP as well.”

“Our church is committed to the Great Commission, planting churches, training people called to ministry, and reaching the nations. This is a big vision requiring great strategy and funding. We have found there is no better return on our ministry investment than giving to the Cooperative Program.”

BRINGING THEIR BEST

IN THE WORST OF TIMES

Disaster relief has carried South Texas couple across many, many miles to serve people in crisis

When the first quick response feeding unit (QRU) was acquired by Southern Baptists of Texas Convention Disaster Relief five years ago, Director Scottie Stice knew it was something special. All he needed was a pair of volunteers to pioneer the effort.

He found that team in Ronnie and Connie Roark, and the couple has since been joined by others as the SBTC DR QRU fleet has grown to four units.

The QRU—whether in trailer or vehicle form—is a small, highly mobile food truck that can be rapidly deployed in emergency situations. Mass feeding units require considerable setup and staff, but the QRU can be in place preparing meals within hours with only two volunteers.

“The key to the QRU’s success is flexibility,” Stice said.

SBTC DR QRUs deployed more times in 2022 than similar units from all state Baptist DR teams combined, Stice noted, adding, “We look for opportunities to serve [using the QRUs] and ask, ‘Why not?’”

DISASTER RELIEF

SUBMITTED PHOTOS

The QRU can be a rapid response godsend. It has been called on to prepare 50 meals per day for first responders battling wildfires in West Texas one moment, and the next, to churn out its maximum of 700 meals per day for hurricane survivors in Southeast Texas.

Called to feed others

The Roarks, who live southeast of San Antonio and attend Salem Sayers Baptist Church, became involved with SBTC DR in 2017 during Hurricane Harvey recovery efforts.

“We knew we wanted to do something to help but did not know how we could. We visited with our preacher, Brother Bret Edwards, and he told us about SBTC DR,” Ronnie recalled. The Roarks attended an SBTC DR mass feeding training session the following week in San Antonio and signed on.

“The following Monday we were at Champion Forest Baptist Church in Houston, cooking for our support volunteers, and we’ve been cooking since,” Connie said.

The couple, who met and married in Abilene in 1974, moved to the San Antonio area in 2015 to be near family, joining Salem Sayers the following year. Ronnie had retired from a 34-year career with an electrical power company and Connie—who formerly worked in banking—had operated a home-based business until 2006.

As they attended training in the wake of Harvey, they felt called to the feeding ministry.

While deployed at Champion Forest, they met Stice. Ronnie suggested adding a small supply trailer to alleviate the need for daily restocking trips for the large mass-feeding kitchen.

“Scottie told us about a new ministry he had been thinking of starting with a small team running a cooking trailer,” Connie recalled. “His problem was that he did not have a team to run the new QRU.”

“You do now,” the Roarks exclaimed.

And the rest is history.

In addition to the unit maintained by Salem Sayers Baptist, SBTC DR has two other food trailer QRUs: one in Pampa, maintained by the Top O’ Texas Baptist Association, and the newest addition at Hillcrest Baptist Church in Jasper. Lake Athens Baptist Church operates a food truck donated by Houston’s First Baptist. This regional system makes quick deployment possible, more so than if the equipment was stored in a central warehouse.

A mobile refrigerated/freezer unit was also added in 2022 and has the capacity to carry food and supplies to prepare 3,000 meals, Ronnie said, adding, “This unit was used in our recent deployment to Fort Myers, Fla., and proved its value.” In Florida, the QRU—manned by the Roarks and other volunteers who relieved them—cranked out an average of 120 meals per day for 46 days to serve volunteers, first responders, and survivors of Hurricane Ian last October.

—RONNIE ROARK

No town ‘forgotten’

As for the Roarks’ most memorable deployments, the couple recalls being sent to the Rio Grande Valley in June 2019 to respond to flooding. As the pair were en route, the national relief agency that had contacted SBTC DR offices for assistance canceled the request.

“You’re on the road. Keep going. We’ll figure out where you will set up and what our mission will be while you’re driving,” Stice told the Roarks.

With a team also consisting of Pastor Edwards and his daughter, the Roarks drove to Raymondville and parked in a grocery store parking lot at the floodwater’s edge. As they waited, two women approached to inquire about the unit.

“It’s just what we need,” one of the women said. With permission, the team proceeded to First Methodist Raymondville, where the church operated a clinic, and within three hours were serving 300 hamburgers.

“We remained onsite for around five days,” Ronnie said. “When we left, our recovery teams set up at the church. Lesson learned? You may not know the plan, but God always does.”

City and county officials are almost always grateful for the work of the QRU and other DR units. The Roarks recalled deploying to the Lake Charles, La., area—specifically the hamlet of Lake Arthur—following Hurricane Delta in 2020. There they worked in support of the Texas Salvation Army.

The Lake Arthur mayor, police chief, fire chief, and city manager assisted in the distribution of food. The mayor told the Roarks Lake Arthur was often the “forgotten town” when storms hit and that they appreciated the assistance. When the Roarks passed on the sentiments to Salvation Army coordinator Kathy Clark, relief crews worked with determination to ensure that the town was by no means forgotten.

“God’s message of hope was shared in this community,” Ronnie said. “Many felt the touch of God that week.”

Like the song made famous by Johnny Cash, the Roarks have “been everywhere.”

“QRUs have been very active since their beginning in 2018. We have responded to hurricanes, structural fires, forest fires, tornadoes, floods, and mass shootings. Along with providing support during disasters, we also helped in feeding the homeless in Austin and later fed the volunteers supporting the Houston Food Bank while distributing supplies during COVID. Not only have we served across Texas, but also in New Mexico, Louisiana, Florida, and Nebraska,” Ronnie said.

“Round wheels are on our QRUs so they can roll to wherever they’re needed to provide a hot meal and the hope of Jesus,” Stice said, adding, “Our volunteers energize the system. We go where the Lord directs.”

In a crisis, God hears us when we call out to Him

Editor's note: This article was written prior to the most recent ice storm that impacted large portions of Texas at the end of January and beginning of February.

Texas winters are no joke, and our church found out just how challenging and demanding a Central Texas ice storm can be on Feb. 17, 2021. On that day, I entered our church on day three of a freeze that left our campus with no power to make sure our children's education building did not have any water issues.

As I opened the church door, I stepped into ankle-deep water. The frigid waters shocked my system into action. I began calling the staff and building a team. I slogged through the offices into the main foyer and found what seemed like Niagara Falls. I could see water running into our sanctuary and, on the other side of the foyer, running into our adult wing, as well.

We soon identified two more water lines that had burst. All total, we found five burst pipes, including those in our Family Life Center. Our children's building—that I had initially ventured out in the ice and snow to check on—was not harmed at all.

When we finally got the water turned off, those in the building took a collective breath. I was stunned at the damage—and this on the heels of recently reopening our campus following the COVID shutdown. As I observed the men who responded to my call for help, I was encouraged by their general mood. There was no hand-wringing or despair in their voices. Instead, there was a calm in the midst of this storm that was still delivering its icy blast outside.

The following Sunday, we met in our Family Life Center—which, in and of itself, was a monumental project of moving sound equipment from the worship center, creating staging, and moving from recorded events to live-streaming. Once again, I was taken aback by the people surrounding me. I never heard a critical or derogatory word from anyone. It certainly was not business as usual, but it wasn't an insurmountable obstacle, either. There was hope—hope declared through our congregation.

Once we contacted our insurance company, we placed fans in all the rooms and hallways affected by the flood. We chose a team from our congregation to administer the clean-up and work with contractors and the insurance company. Once the water had subsided and the building was declared safe, we announced a work night to remove the drywall from the affected areas and to remove all the carpet and padding. We prayed we would have enough help. One of our staff members recalled that while he was driving to the church, he was praying that no one would be injured and that our church family would show up to help. He remembers tearing up as he turned into the property and saw 20-30 vehicles filled with equipment.

Inside the campus, the mood was electrifying. Among the mix of our members were non-members who had come from the community to help. Lake Belton High School brought sponsors and teens from its National Honor Society, cheerleaders, and members of the football team. I didn't even know how they knew, but they responded to the call. Members we had not seen in over a year due to COVID were busy tearing out drywall, taking off faceplates, and moving pews. There was such camaraderie that I can only describe the response as the "Miracle for LBC." Doom and gloom were absent, and in its place was laughter and stories filling the damaged halls, classrooms, and worship center. We had a common foe, and the Lord supplied the warriors.

Through all the adversity we had faced over the past several years, we did not close our doors or diminish in size. All our financial needs were met. We could have folded our tent. We could have focused on how horrible the situation was. However, out of this disaster, the Lord brought many new families. In the place of what could have been a dying church, God turned graves into gardens.

The Lord accomplished great things and saw His name glorified at Lakeview Baptist Church in the early months of 2021, and we are still feeling the effects today.

PANHANDLE CHURCH FINDS UNEXPECTED BLESSING FROM GOD—AND USES IT TO BLESS OTHERS

SPRINGLAKE

Kelley Fennell has attended First Baptist Church in Springlake all her life. In addition to serving as church treasurer, she is the vacation Bible school director and ladies Bible study teacher.

According to Pastor Rob Norris, she also spearheaded the church's Bless Your Socks Off campaign—which has not only impacted its members, but the local community, tornado victims in Kentucky and Tennessee, missionaries in India and Pakistan, and so much more.

Not that Fennell wants any of that light shined on her.

"It's not about the church. It's not about what we have done, but it's about how God has blessed us," she said.

FBC Springlake is a small church in a really small panhandle town, located about 45 miles from the New Mexico border. There's a post office, a cotton gin, and the church. The population is approximately 120, with about 50 people attending the church on Sunday mornings.

In 2020, the COVID pandemic presented the church with a surplus through continued faithful giving. Fennell and the finance committee met on numerous occasions to determine how they could use those extra funds to help others. Through those meetings, God provided opportunities.

Fennell said Norris loves to remind church members that the Hebrew word for "cheerful" in 2 Corinthians 9:7 ("God loves a cheerful giver") is hilaros—from which the English word hilarious is derived.

“It’s not about the church. It’s not about what we have done, but it’s about how God has blessed us.”

—KELLEY FENNELL

“And so we did,” Fennell said. “We’ve just had a hilariously fun time doing this.”

And thus, FBC Springlake’s Bless Your Socks Off campaign was born, with Luke 6:38 becoming its driving force: “Give and it will be given to you, good measure pressed down, shaken together and running over.”

Soon, the Lord began to do something abundantly more than anyone in the church could really imagine—and something Fennell had never seen in her 25-plus years as treasurer. Namely, the monthly reconciled bank balance registered at more than $100,000.

“So many churches we would hear from during this time, and from friends and families, were struggling to meet their budgets during COVID,” Fennell said, “and because of God’s grace, here we were with an abundance of finances.”

At the church’s December 2021 business meeting, Fennell challenged committee members to look for ways they could bless others with the monetary blessings they had received from God. “We just wanted to bless their socks off,” she said.

Those blessings came in the form of helping people in Springlake with medical expenses and unexpected repairs to vehicles and homes. Then the blessings expanded to the southeast U.S., where tornados had devastated entire communities. The church also supported a young man on a mission trip, instituting vacation Bible schools throughout New Mexico. The blessings even went global, as the church assisted ministries in India and Pakistan.

FBC Springlake members wanted the blessings to be more than just monetary; the church also desired to make new connections and cultivate relationships. In August 2022, a young girl whose dad pastors in war-torn Ukraine went through the long process of coming to America to attend Wayland Baptist University in nearby Plainview. She arrived with nothing more than a suitcase. Through what Fennell describes as “a lot of God connections,” the church was able to bless her with money to purchase items she needed to attend school. The church has committed to support her throughout her college career. The student even came to the church to share her testimony, report on her progress in school, and share her talent of playing the violin.

Fennell says through Bless Your Socks Off, FBC Springlake has truly learned that it is more blessed to give than receive. “It’s opened our eyes to the needs of those around us as we seek out those to minister to, and not just wait on them to come to us. We’ve experienced the joy of giving, and we continue to be blessed by God in ways that we can’t even comprehend.”

Since implementing Bless Your Socks Off, the account from which the church blesses others has never dropped below $90,000. In fact, the balance has steadily increased—leaving the church more resources to continue blessing its community and beyond.

“It has been exciting to see how our people have responded,” Norris, the church’s pastor, said. “They have caught a vision and [started thinking about] where we can help people in a way that honors God and helps folks out.” Norris said the next round of blessings may include helping provide resources for earthquake relief in Turkey and Syria.

Added Fennell: “We pray that we will continue to be faithful to bless others as God has so abundantly blessed us.”

SBTF adds products aimed at impacting kingdom

ARLINGTON

Several opportunities local Southern Baptists of Texas Convention congregations utilize to maximize investments are now available to individuals in SBTC churches—certificate investments that currently yield between 2.00% and 3.75% annually, as well as daily certificate accounts and donor advised funds (DAF). SBTF Executive Director Bart McDonald and Investment Services Director Terry Jeffries answered questions for the Texan about the new products.

Q: Why should individuals invest through the foundation instead of a secular institution?

Jeffries: Since opening certificate investments to individuals on Jan. 1, we have had dozens of people reach out for information and several have already opened accounts. For example, a couple from Houston invested $100,000 in an 11-month certificate that provides 2.70% APY. During this investment term, they will earn $2,475 in interest. The same $100,000 invested in a 30-month certificate would yield 3.30% APY and earn $8,250 during its term.

While banks pay similar rates, investing with the foundation has the added benefit of making a kingdom impact, as those dollars fund loans to plant new churches and expand existing church campuses. Setting up a certificate account at the foundation is easy, and nearly anyone can participate because our minimum investment is only $2,500.

Q: How does a daily certificate account offer immediate access to funds?

Jeffries: This option works similarly to a savings account at a bank. A daily certificate account is an excellent way for individuals to earn 2.00% APY on emergency funds that might otherwise be in a savings account, often earning little interest. These funds are available for withdrawal without penalty, and there are no associated fees for investment. Our online member portal allows clients to make deposits and withdrawals quickly and conveniently.

Q: Why should ministries and individuals invest with the foundation if banks offer similar rates?

Jeffries: First, banks invest in many different types of institutions and organizations, some of which likely do not align with Christian values. The foundation utilizes certificate investments to fund loans to gospel-proclaiming ministries. Dozens of churches across Texas have built new facilities or planted churches with loans from the SBTF.

“While banks pay similar rates, investing with the foundation has the added benefit of making a kingdom impact, as those dollars fund loans to plant new churches and expand existing church campuses.”

TERRY JEFFRIES

When Jason Collins first arrived at CrossRoads Baptist Church in Rowlett, 80 members worshiped in a 5,400-square-foot building. The church experienced explosive growth from 2015 to 2018, baptized 248 people, and grew to over 500 in attendance. The foundation loaned CrossRoads $3 million in 2018 to build a 25,000-square-foot facility. They now worship with over 1,000 on Sundays and baptize around 100 people annually. Certificate clients are the ones who make kingdom growth like this possible through their investments. The foundation has loaned more than $100 million to churches and ministries that are committed to reaching Texas communities.

Q: What exactly is a donor advised fund?

Jeffries: DAFs are charitable giving tools growing in popularity because they simplify the giving process, multiply the impact of giving, and maximize tax benefits. Individuals can contribute to their DAF and receive an immediate tax deduction, allow those invested funds to grow tax-free, and take time to decide what ministries to support and how often. The DAF can send a one-time check or recurring checks on a weekly, monthly, or quarterly basis to your designated charities on your behalf.

Funding a DAF by donating stock or other appreciated value assets provides an immediate tax-deductible contribution of the present value of the asset and also allows the donor to avoid capital gains taxes on the appreciated value. Donors can choose to contribute stock to a DAF when its share price is high rather than [tying] the donation to a specific ministry need, then allow these funds to grow over time and make a more significant kingdom impact. DAFs can make regular title payments to a local church and support other vital ministries or missions like disaster relief, Criswell College, Jacksonville College, or the Texas Baptist Home for Children.

Q: How do DAFs avoid tax liability?

McDonald: DAFs are great vehicles to avoid capital gains taxes on capital appreciated non-cash assets, thereby maximizing resources available to direct toward kingdom causes. The avoidance of capital gains issues related to the sale or liquidation of capital appreciated assets may be another element worthy of disclosure.

Two of the foundation's DAF clients had investments in several pieces of real property. Their cost basis in those properties was incredibly low in comparison to current market valuations. Having decided it was time to sell, they donated those properties into their family-styled DAF accounts. At the point of donation, they receive a tax deduction based on the appraised value of the properties. The added benefit of the avoidance of capital gains taxes on the liquidation was significant in their choice of the DAF as a giving platform.

After receipt, the foundation liquidates the assets with proceeds going into the DAF (less a minor asset handling fee to cover the foundation's costs and efforts of converting the asset to cash). The foundation is a 501c3 entity and not subject to taxation—in other words, no capital gains levied by the IRS.

Current 2022 capital gains are 15% on households whose income exceeds $41,676. On several of these properties, the gains would have been well in the high six- to low seven-figure range. Instead of the related capital gains ending up in the IRS coffers, those amounts were preserved and end up in the DAF cash balances, which can in turn be directed by the donors to benefit their church and other kingdom charities. DAF accounts are excellent ways to direct capital appreciated assets to fund kingdom endeavors, with stocks, investments, and non-cash real property assets being the most common.

SBTF is available by calling 844-351-8804, online at sbtexasfoundation.com, and in person for churches and individuals at 2331 Brookhollow Plaza Drive, Arlington, TX 76006. SBTF staff are also available to make presentations to local churches by request.

M3 WKND INCLUDES DECISIONS FOR CHRIST, PRAYER FOR FRIENDS

EULESS

This year's M3 WKND, held Jan. 13-14 at Cross City Church in Euless, provided many great visuals to remind students and their leaders that they are not alone—maybe none more poignant than a moment during the conference when 350 students got on their hands and knees to pray for lost friends and family members.

By the end of the event, 13 who attended made a profession of faith in Jesus Christ; another 22 answered a call to ministry.

"[Gen Z teenagers and the upcoming Gen Alpha teenagers] aren't drawn to big events based on a personality anymore," said Brandon Bales, student ministry associate for the Southern Baptists of Texas Convention. "Instead, they are drawn to the hope of deeper and wider relationships. At M3 WKND, we want to connect students to each other and remind them they aren't alone in sharing the gospel deep and wide in this world."

Bales said M3 WKND is a microcosm of M3 Camps, which are held in multiple locations in Texas and New Mexico during the summer.

GOD'S NOT DONE WITH YOU SCHEDULED FOR APRIL 1 RELEASE

God's Not Done With You, a book authored by Cross City Church Senior Pastor John Meador, will be released April 1 through The Good Book Company.

The book will offer "nine amazing stories of faith that give us hope for our own challenging setbacks," including biblical accounts of the lives of Joseph, Esther, and David. Through their stories, Meador writes about the "extraordinary changes of heart" experienced by those historical figures and "how God works in all things for the good of those who love Him," according to a preview listed on Amazon, where the book is available for pre-order.

Meador has served as a lead pastor for four decades and has served as senior pastor at Cross City Church in Euless since 2006. His own story is one that is borne out of adversity, as he suffered a severe illness as a child that left him with irreversible hearing loss.

SBTC DR TEAMS DEPLOY TO CENTRAL TEXAS AFTER ICE STORM

The winter storm that pummeled a wide swath of the Lone Star State during the final days of January and the beginning of February prompted Southern Baptists of Texas Convention Disaster Relief to quickly deploy recovery teams to affected regions.

In the Austin area, First Baptist Church of Pflugerville suffered minor damage from falling tree limbs weighed down by ice. Church members began clearing debris by Feb. 2, said

"As things have thawed out, the situation is getting bigger," said Scottie Stice, SBTC DR director, noting that reports of damage had come from Dripping Springs, Austin, Georgetown, and Pflugerville. "We are starting to hear reports of needs in Tyler and Athens [in East Texas] too," he said. "The ice has done considerable damage to power lines and trees."

Chaplains and assessors will deploy to affected areas once teams receive addresses of homes with damage. Other ministry areas will respond as the deployment expands, Stice said.

Tayne has served in a variety of roles during her three-plus decades at the church. Those roles have included service as MacArthur's children's director, Mother's Day Out director, and as generational ministry director. In her current role, her ministry focus spans from expectant parents to families with preschoolers.

Tayne has been a frequent speaker at Southern Baptists of Texas Convention events, including its annual Equip Conference, as well as being asked to make presentations at Southern Baptist Convention events that include breakout topics ranging from preschoolers to parenting.

She and her husband, Rob, have three adult children and three grandchildren.

MESSANGER PRE-REGISTRATION FOR SBC ANNUAL MEETING OPENS

NEW ORLEANS

Those wanting to pre-register as messengers and/or register for childcare at the upcoming SBC Annual Meeting can now do so at sbcanualmeeting.net.

Both became available on Feb. 1 in anticipation of the gathering slated for June 11-14 at the Ernest N. Morial Convention Center in New Orleans. The theme is Serving the Lord, Serving Others. The annual meeting returns to New Orleans for the first time since 2012. At that gathering, Fred Luter, Jr. was elected to become the first African American president in SBC history.

As he walked through an airport, current SBC President Bart Barber—pastor of First Baptist Church in Farmersville—took the opportunity to urge Southern Baptists to pre-register in a video he posted to Twitter.

"Get to your computer and sign up for those childcare spaces and get your church-approved messenger credentials all lined up so we can gather in New Orleans and celebrate what God is doing in the Southern Baptist Convention," he said.

WHITTEN JOINS NAMB, WILL DIRECT LEADERSHIP MINISTRY

MIAMI

Ken Whitten, recently retired pastor of Idlewild Baptist Church in Tampa, Fla., will become national director of pastoral leadership at the North American Mission Board (NAMB) beginning in March. NAMB President Kevin Ezell shared the news at NAMB's Board of Trustees meeting in Miami on Feb. 7.

Whitten aspires to be a connector, a counselor, and a comforter for ministry leaders no matter what stage or season of ministry they find themselves in, with the goal of boosting both them and their churches toward a place of health and vitality. One way he aims to connect pastors will be through prayer, to connect them to other pastors, and introduce them to resources and ideas.

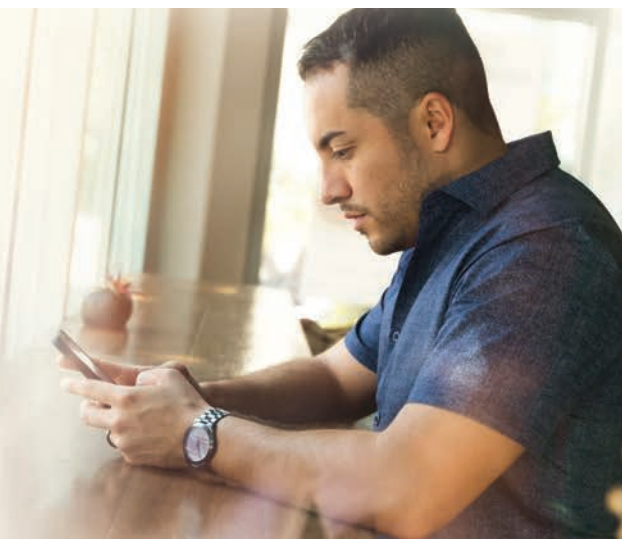

"Ken Whitten is a lifelong friend and brother," said Jack Graham, pastor of Prestonwood Baptist Church in Plano. "His loving devotion to Christ, impeccable character, commitment to evangelism and church health and growth, strong pastoral gifts, and relational skills will be a huge blessing to pastors and church leaders."

I let God use my life to introduce others to Him

I've served Era Baptist Church [near Gainesville] for 50 years. I'm not a teacher. I can show you how to do something, but I'm not the guy to teach a class. I joke sometimes that I'm a flunky, the guy you call when you need something done behind the scenes.

I started as a contract worker for the Era school district after my employer of 20 years, National Supply—they made oil field equipment—closed down. The job at National Supply covered a lot of different kinds of work, but I liked the assembly line best. I also did a lot of different things for the school district. I drove a school bus for 12 years, cleaned bathrooms and other kinds of custodial work, and eventually supervised the custodial workers.

Patsy, my wife, has been gone for six years. We were together for 62 years and raised four children. She was from Gainesville, so it was natural for us to move back to the area after I ended my eight-year service in the U.S. Air Force. I joined in 1953 and was trained as an aircraft mechanic. As I traveled from one base to another, I spent some time in Wichita Falls. That's where Patsy and I married and started our family.

I loved flying as a flight engineer, but that became impossible because of a collapsed lung. Also, our eldest son, Ronnie, had muscular dystrophy and some of the duty stations weren't compatible with his care. Although having a child with special needs wasn't easy, someone told me once that God gave Ronnie to a family who would love him and take care of him. It's always seemed like a special job that God gave Patsy and me.

The people in Era made us feel at home. Ronnie, who was an eighth-grader in a wheelchair by now, had some classes that were upstairs in the school building. We didn't have an elevator in those days, but the agriculture teacher said that he and some of the boys at school would build ramps for Ronnie if I'd provide the wood. That solved a big problem for our family.

After we moved back, a pastor from Gainesville, along with my father-in-law, led me to Christ shortly after I left the Air Force. I was baptized here, back in 1962. Some of the lessons my aunt, who was my teacher at church when I was a child, taught me about God and serving Him stuck with me, even if I had not yet believed.

We moved to Era Baptist Church in 1973, and I'm 89 years old now. There are some things I can't do anymore. But the church asked me to be a deacon some years back. I'm still a deacon. One of the ways I serve our church is by being an example. When I was approached to serve as a deacon, the pastor remarked that people watched me, that they saw my example and learned from it. Part of that may be that I know so many of the younger people because they saw me at school.

My pastor remarked about how so many adults called me "Mr. Mode." When he asked one of them if he knew my first name, the man grinned and said, "Mister." They used to call my wife "Ma Mode" because she also worked in various jobs at the school district and was known by the kids. I received a note from a young lady in our church saying she was about to be married. She is the daughter of one of the students who knew me at the school district. I think her mother used to ride my bus. It's a good feeling to have the respect of people so young.

Although I'm not a Bible teacher, I tell the younger people, "Just watch me," and hope that the way I live is a lesson about how to follow God—what I do, what I don't do. On Sundays when I can make it, I stand in the lobby of the church. Everyone who comes in gets a smile, a hug, and a handshake. I want to make them feel welcome so they can hear about the Lord.

I've also come to the point that I depend on my neighbors, friends, and church members to help me. Before Patsy died, she in any way I'm able. As I get older, I'm blessed to have God's wrote a note to one of our friends and asked her to help me with the household business. Our friend came after Patsy died and collected all the financial records and bills and told me not to worry about them. In fact, she helps me with doctor appointments and other sorts of things. Some of the families from the church intentionally make "too much" dinner so they can bring me leftovers. Others will have me over for lunch or dinner. I've been very blessed to have the friends and neighbors I have.

So, what's my story? God is my boss, and I serve him in any way I'm able. As I get older, I'm blessed to have God's people serve me as well.

Pastoring in an active war zone

I will never forget the day Craig Miller and I drove through the Jordanian desert at 95 miles per hour to deliver cash and encouragement to embedded missionaries in Baghdad. These heroic Southern Baptist Convention missionaries were working alongside the equally heroic U.S. military to replace water pumps in the immediate aftermath of the Iraqi War.

Except the war wasn't over. Not even close.

Craig and I only heard the part of President George W. Bush's speech that we wanted to hear on May 2, 2003: "In the battle of Iraq, the major phase of combat is over. The United States and our allies have prevailed," Bush said, while standing on the enormous flight deck of the USS Abraham Lincoln.

If we had listened carefully to the rest of his speech, Craig and I would have heard Bush say there is still "difficult work to do. Parts of that country remain dangerous ... The al-Qaida terrorist organization is wounded, not destroyed..."

Once we arrived two months later, it became obvious that Baghdad was still a very active war zone. We saw firefights almost every day—the most active one at the United Nations building, which was soon after destroyed by a suicide bomber. In a separate attack a few months after we left, three of the brave International Mission Board missionaries we worked with were ambushed in traffic and killed.

Pastors, missionaries, and other ministry leaders live and fight daily in an active war zone that is just as real as what we experienced in Baghdad. In some ways, pastors are dealing with even more insidious enemies because their battle is, for the most part, invisible. The world, Satan, and even our own flesh conspire against us every day, which makes it hard to win.

Sometimes our worst enemy is the person in the mirror. No right-minded minister ever woke up thinking, "How can I blow up my ministry today?" Yet the recent epidemic of messy ministry exits ranges from slow-fading burnouts to epic moral meltdowns.

God has a much better plan for our lives and ministries. He has called us to start well, serve well, and finish well. On the Apostle Paul's last ministry lap, he shared his resolve with Timothy and his team: "My purpose is to finish my course and the ministry I received from the Lord Jesus" (Acts 20:24). His follow-up letter to Timothy from death row was a legacy statement: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith" (2 Timothy 4:7).

Although our ultimate war has already been won through Jesus' finished work on the cross, our wounded enemy is shrewdly taking aim at the commissioned officers of the church. Jesus warned us of our enemy's schemes to strike the shepherd so that the sheep of the flock will be scattered (Matthew 26:31).

Our legacy will be determined more on how we finish our race than how we started it. When we win, others in our family and ministry win. When we lose, the collateral damage is often bigger than we will ever see in our lifetimes.
